THE QUEEN IN THE HIGHLANDS .- [London Correspondence New York Times.]-It is said that the Queen was with difficulty persuaded not to run off to Balmoral in the midst of the Czar's visit, and that the Premier had to suggest that a little delay would be decorous. Her Majesty is now in the midst of her faithful Highlanders, and cajoying herself in her own way. As soon as she got to Balmoral she attended the funeral of one of her gillies, going to the house of the deceased, and laying a wreath of flowers on the coffin at the end of the service. & few nights after there was a servants' hall at the Castle, and in the course of the evening the Queen not only countenanced the proceedings by her presence, but took part in the dancing. She danced with Prince Albert Victor and Prince George, sons of the Prince of Wales, and afterwards took part in a reel with John Brown, her attendant, and Donald Stewart, game-keeper. It is easy to understand what a relief this must have been after the severe exquette of an imperial reception. This is the first time that the Queen has danced state the death of the Prince Consort. I leave you to imagine the state of mind of society in the arrival of this interesting piece of news, and all the comments, remors, and conjectures to which it has given rise. Except at Balmoral ber Majesty never attends a ball or even a con-
